House Papers

'We arrived here today on roads that we did not build, in vehicles we did not manufacture, using fuel we did not extract from the earth nor refine, wearing clothing that we did not sew. We'll nourish our bodies with food that we did not grow, prepare, nor serve. We sit at desks and chairs we did not construct. We hear these words over devices whose workings we do not understand. We are grateful for these tens of thousands of items we use daily without thought. But we are most grateful for the enterprise system that makes them possible.'
