(1-7) the City of Sanford, which is celebrating its 250th Anniversary. In 1661, a lumberman named William Phillips purchased a large tract of land encompassing what is now Sanford and some of the surrounding area. It was called Phillipstown and remained uninhabited until 1739, but by 1752 the area had 100 residents. On February 27, 1768, the settlement became a town named in honor of Peleg Sanford, stepson of William Phillips and former Governor of the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations. Agriculture predominated in the town's economy until the late 1860s, when Thomas Goodall established Goodall Mills, initially making carriage robes and blankets and later expanding to produce railroad car upholstery, carpets, draperies and other fabrics. Today, Sanford's industry comprises over 40 firms producing a vast array of items from woolens to aircraft and aircraft components. By 2010, Sanford had grown to 20,798 residents, making it the 7th largest municipality in the State, and on January 1, 2013 became a city after a majority vote of its citizens. We extend to the citizens of the City of Sanford our congratulations on their Sestercentennial Celebration;
