Joint Resolutions

Joint Resolutions in Memoriam:

WHEREAS, the Legislature has learned with deep regret of the death of:

(1-71) Allen L. Bemis, of Corinna. Mr. Bemis was a longtime member of the Corinna Volunteer Fire Department and a member of the Parian Masonic Lodge. He worked for the Town of Corinna Public Works for approximately twenty years and was recently promoted to Public Works Supervisor. Mr. Bemis will be long remembered and sadly missed by his family and friends and all those whose lives he touched;

HLS 102

WHEREAS, the Legislature has learned with deep regret of the death of:

(1-72) Anne Kilham, of Rockport. Ms. Kilham moved to Rockport in 1972 and started a business with handprinted block print notes and postcards that she sold herself and through local shops, eventually moving on to watercolors that captured images of the coast and islands, inland mountains and lakes and flower gardens. She was active in town affairs and served on various committees, including the conservation and comprehensive plan committees, and provided the cover art for the annual town report for several years. In 2008, she was named Artist Laureate for the Town of Rockport. Ms. Kilham will be long remembered and sadly missed by her family and friends and all those whose lives she touched;

WHEREAS, the Legislature has learned with deep regret of the death of:

(1-73) Walter Junior Seward, of Bar Harbor, a stalwart of Bar Harbor life known as the "caretaker of Bar Harbor," a teacher and a civil rights activist. Mr. Seward was a veteran of the United States Air Force who served in Vietnam. He served in maintenance for many years at the Bar Harbor Town Hall and devoted decades of good service to the Bar Harbor Inn, and for a number of years he was a caretaker of David Witham, Sr., who suffered from Parkinson's disease. He was a teacher and protector for many children and teens that grew up skating at Glen Mary. He organized Martin Luther King Jr. Day observances and was very active with the YWCA and the MDI Racial Equity Working Group. Mr. Seward will be long remembered and sadly missed by his family and friends and all those whose lives he touched;

WHEREAS, the Legislature has learned with deep regret of the death of:

(1-74) Philip M. Harrington, Sr., of Woolwich. Mr. Harrington was a veteran of the United States Army who served as a paratrooper in the 1950s. In his young adulthood, he worked at factory and painting jobs and as a foreman for a concrete company. For 25 years, he dug worms, cut wood and went shrimping and groundfishing off the Gulf of Maine and the Bering Sea. In 1990, he founded Phil Harrington Bait, where he worked tirelessly with friends and family for the next 30 years. Mr. Harrington will be long remembered and sadly missed by his wife of 61 years, Dorothy, his family and friends and all those whose lives he touched;

WHEREAS, the Legislature has learned with deep regret of the death of:

(1-75) William H. Haynes, of Waterford, who was known as "the Mayor of Waterford." Mr. Haynes had a nearly two-decade newspaper career, writing for the Advertiser-Democrat for four years, the last of which he served as managing editor, and working as a reporter and photographer for the Portland Press Herald before founding The Mutiny Brook Times, a "good news" newspaper for Waterford. He also operated the family farm, producing and selling hay, and helped operate the Mutiny Brook Stables trail riding business. He was a devoted and active member of the Waterford and Oxford Hills communities. He served as the code enforcement officer and cemetery superintendent for the Town of Waterford. He was a longtime member of the Norway-Paris Kiwanis Club and served as secretary. He served as assistant chief of the Waterford Volunteer Fire Department, coached youth basketball teams and played for local men's recreational teams. As a member of the Bear Mountain Library Association, he helped organize its merger with the Waterford Library. Mr. Haynes will be long remembered and sadly missed by his family and friends;
