(1-4) Lisa J. Marchese Eames, of Cumberland, on her retirement as Chief of the Criminal Division of the Maine Attorney General's office. Ms. Marchese Eames was hired to work in the Criminal Division after her graduation from law school in 1986. As a member of the Criminal Division, she taught for many years at the Maine Criminal Justice Academy and handled extradition cases for several Governors. She prosecuted all types of criminal cases from OUI to welfare fraud to sexual assault to murder. For several years, she served as the State's first Statewide Drug Coordinator for drug prosecution matters. In 1997, she became one of four statewide homicide prosecutors in the State. In that capacity, she handled over 100 cases involving murder or manslaughter charges. A substantial number of those cases were complicated jury trials involving technical forensic evidence such as DNA, ballistics, fingerprints, pathology and state of mind. Ms. Marchese Eames chaired the Domestic Violence Homicide Review panel, which examines all domestic violence related homicides in search of ways to reduce the number of people who die as a result of domestic abuse. She also served on the Attorney General's Human Trafficking working group and as the Attorney General's designee on the Rules of Evidence Advisory Committee. In 2001, The Maine Child Abuse Action Network awarded Ms. Marchese Eames the Professional of the Year Award. In 2010, she was awarded the prestigious Caroline Duby Glassman Award by the Women's Law Section of the Maine State Bar Association. In 2014, she was promoted to Deputy Attorney General, Chief of the Criminal Division, the first woman to hold that position. A graduate of the University of Maine, she was appointed by two Governors to the University of Maine System Board of Trustees, serving as Vice-Chair, and in 2018 she received the Maryann Hartman Award, which recognizes outstanding women with strong ties to the State. We extend to Ms. Marchese Eames our appreciation for her long service to the people of Maine and offer her our best wishes;
